

ELECTRONIC SPIROMETER TRAINERModel Number : GOTT-ESMT-01*DESCRIPTION

GOTT-ESMT-01 is designed to demonstrate the operation, theory, repair and servicing of Electronic Spirometer equipment that used at clinics & hospitals. The unit is given the fault diagnosis so as to facilitate the teaching of trouble shooting techniques. A fault simulator is provided with circuit block diagram of the device for the students to study theoretically and experimentally in order to understand the operation of the device.

The fault is activated by button that disables or create malfunction of certain circuit or components so that the device become faulty.

Based on the symptoms and the signal at the test points, the students then do the troubleshooting exercise to find the faulty circuit or components. After locating the failure, the fault can be reset, and then the device work normally.
